J. L. Dawson and W. H. Hawkins, of Plattburg, Mo., were in Kansas City, Thursday of last week in pursuit of a cow alleged to have been stolen from Hawkins last July by Wiggins Green, colored. Water had to be carried to the horses in the stable about a hundred yards from the spring. A part of the distance is covered by a hill which, in the condition of the last week or two could not be walked over by a person loaded by a pair of water. This huge dog pulled water on a sled to water several head of horses.

The jury in rendering the verdict recommended young Allen to the mercy of the court, and signed a petition to the president, asking that he be put into a reform school for life.
